Design Studio Hugo Ribeiro

From this young Portuguese designer—just two years out of college—comes Croké. The side table's top and base are raw pine; between them, layers of salvaged plastic bags are carefully crocheted together. The colorful middle conceals a small shelf space perfect for stashing love letters or your favorite chocolate. designstudiohugoribeiro.com. circle 460

Nemschoff

The possibilities are vast with the company's modular Parsons occasional table. Choose two or four slabs—or four legs, not shown—for the base; you can complete the cube by closing off the bottom, too. Material options include wood veneers and plastic laminates in a range of hues. The size can run from 18 to 36 inches square. nemschoff.com.

Straight Line Designs

Every room needs personality, and Artie will gladly lend his. Designed in the shape of a sassy portly gentleman, the chest (of sorts) features a hodgepodge of drawers in alder, maple, walnut, and fir—fully functional compartments that can be rearranged at whim. Artie has heart, too: inside one drawer is a mini ticking clock. straightlinedesigns.com.

Gufram

Designed in 1972 by Guido Drocco and Franco Mello, this 5½-foot-tall coat rack is a longtime Gufram favorite. This year, the company introduces a limited-edition version of the painted, expanded-polyurethane staple: LeBleuCactus. Porquoi bleu? you may ask. The classic hue for national French sports, the color even boasts its own chant: Allez les bleus! gufram.it. circle 463

B. Pila Design

Sometimes a room needs just the pop of color Laslo supplies. Inspired by cascading water, the nesting side tables come in teal, copper, citrine, and other vibrant options. Thin colored film applied to the inch-thick molded-acrylic form gives it an ephemeral quality. bpilabespoke.com.
